INTRODUCTION.

TO THE READER:

To gratify an inclination which I have long had, and which has increased as age advances, I have undertaken the task of looking up the history of my ancestors, and putting it together, for my own pleasure, and more especially for the benefit of posterity. Although it may be very imperfect, yet it will serve as a connecting link with the past, and assist some more persevering hand in collecting a history of the good men and true who have gone before us. There are many obstacles to be encountered in collecting materials for a genealogy. A person thus engaged is soon brought in contact with the doubting, who will inquire, What possible good will all this be to any one? Then the timid, who are fearful that a neighbor may acquire by it some knowledge of their family, their connexions, or their associations. And then the indifferent, who would willingly answer the questions proposed, if they could only get about it, but consider them of so little importance as not to be worth their while to undertake it. And then, to balance the scale, a friend may be met with, who enters into the project with his whole heart, and thinks he can do the greatest honor to his ancestors, by leaving a record of them to posterity.

To those who have responded to my inquiries and helped me forward in this work, and especially to those who have given me pecuniary aid in publishing it, I return my hearty thanks, trusting that they will all feel that they have done something for which their posterity will be grateful. And with those who have turned away with indifference, I shall not quarrel, but leave them to settle the matter with their own consciences, and as their own feelings dictate.

It is very difficult to get at facts of long standing. There is a great discrepency in dates. If in a printed oration a wrong word creeps in through mistake, the intelligent reader will readily correct it; but in a genealogy, if the wrong figure occurs, it leads the reader astray, it is an error without a remedy, and, rather than have it such, it would be better that it were a blank. I have endeavored as far as possible, in this small work, to get the dates, and that with accuracy; but I find that family records, town records, and grave-stone inscriptions, in many cases disagree. I have, as much as possible, taken my dates from the original family records, believing they would not be so likely to err as the copies. After giving all the information I could gather of our ancestors in England, I begin with William Blake, who was the pioneer of the family in this then new world. He, with his wife and children, were early here. I have followed the line down in direct succession to Samuel Blake, who died in Dorchester, May 1, 1754, and who with his wife, Patience (White), left five children who lived to marry and have families, and I flattered myself that I should get an account of every one of their descendants. I think I have found nearly all, but I lack more dates than I had anticipated.

The orthography of christian names, and in a few instances of surnames also, will be found to vary. I have followed the record from which I copied, conceding to all persons their undoubted right to call their children by what name they please, and spell that name as they fancy. I have adopted the plan of the "Book of the Lockes," by J. G. Locke, Esq., which is the most perfect genealogy that I have ever had the pleasure of perusing, and with him I say that the daughters and their descendants are as important, in the history of a family, as the sons. The numbering of the families and their children, will be explained hereafter.

The etymology of the name, Blake, was furnished me by JOHN H. BLAKE, Esq., of Roxbury, and is as follows:—

“The ancient and respectable family of BLAKE, is of British extraction, and traditionally descended from AP-LAKE, whose name appears as one of the Knights of King Arthur’s round table. Succeeding generations, however, seem to have paid little attention to the orthography of the name, so variously do we find it written. In the first instance, by dropping the initial letter it was rendered P-LAKE, and then, by compression, PLAKE, one entire word, both of which, alike, produce a sound and utterance uncouth and unharmonious. It was corrupted into BLAGUE, to the confusion of all etymological explanation, had it so continued, but chance or design applied a remedy by substituting BLAAKE, and ultimately BLAKE, which latter reading took place many centuries back, and has continued invariably the same from that period to the present day.”

The Appendix contains much that is interesting to antiquaries, being abstracts of Wills, Inventories and other matter, in which some members of the Blake family were the principal actors. Through the whole work, it has been my object to bring in much collateral matter in relation to persons, places and events. I have constantly kept in view the utility of placing landmarks along the line, from generation to generation, to guide those who would know something of their ancestry. In future years, it is to be hoped that there will be many inclined to follow back their pedigree to William Blake, who left Dorchester, in Dorset, Old England, for an unknown home in New England, which was subsequently called Dorchester, in Massachusetts Bay.

It does not require a great prophet to foretell, that as our country proceeds from infancy towards maturity, there will be an increasing desire to study the history of the men and times that have passed before us. The people will not be so completely absorbed in acquiring wealth, and indulging in luxury, and making a show; neither will there be a necessity for so much personal exertion to acquire a competence, as the nation advances in age and resources.

This work, though it be small and imperfect, I place before my kinsfolk and the public, feeling assured that, as they contemplate the difficulty of the task, they will readily excuse the errors that occur, and I shall then feel that I have not spent my time in vain, nor labored for nought.

EXPLANATION.

The Roman numerals, in the left hand column, denote the generation to which the children of each family belong. The first column of figures denote the number of each individual, and this numbering is carried through the work. Figures before the head of each family, in the same column, and enclosed in parentheses, thus (29), denote the number of the paragraph or family. Figures immediately after the first name in each paragraph (and in a few instances after the second name also), in brackets, thus [61], refer back to the individual in the family in which he or she is first named. Figures at the extreme right hand of the page, included in parentheses, thus (29), refer forward to the paragraph where that individual's family are traced out.

ABBREVIATIONS.

BLAKE FAMILY.

THE "BLAKE FAMILY" IN ENGLAND.

THE earliest accounts that I can gather of the "Blake Family" I have received from John H. Blake, Esq., of Roxbury, who sent to England expressly for the purpose, and obtained the following from the Records there.

- 1st.—John Blake, of Little Baddow, Co. of Essex, England, Gent.
- 2d.—John Blake, of Little Baddow, Gent. He m. Anna, dau. and heir of Rawson. His children were—Richard, John, Robert, Francis, Humphrey, Christopher, and Anna who m. (i.) Wm. Pascall, and (ii.) — Barry.
- 3d.—Richard Blake, m. Mabel, dau. of Coverte of Essex. His chil. were—Giles, who m. Dorothy, dau. of Capt. Twedy, of Essex; Christopher, of Ferling in Essex, Gent., m. Phillipa, dau. of John Rochester, of Ferling; Mabel, m. Isaac Withington, of Northumberland; Richard, John, Thomas, Vincent and Edward, all died without issue.
- 4th.—Giles Blake, m. Dorothy Twedy. She was dau. of Capt. Twedy, of Essex. Chil.—William, b. 1594, m. Agnes; Giles, Richard, John, Thomas and Arthur, ob., Arthur, Mary, Dorothy.

FIRST GENERATION IN NEW ENGLAND.

- I. <sup>1</sup>WILLIAM BLAKE, m. Agnes. He was son of Giles and Dorothy (Twedy) Blake, of Little Baddow, Essex, England. He emigrated to America in 1630, with his wife Agnes, and their children. They came in the Ship "Mary and John," Capt. Squeb. They sailed from Plymouth, England, March 20, and arrived at Nantasket (now Hull) May 30, 1630, having a comfortable though long passage. This was the first vessel that arrived, of a considerable fleet that sailed about the same time from Plymouth, laden with passengers for this then far western world. This company finally set themselves down in Dorchester, and commenced their settlement early in June. For a few years, we do not find any mention of our ancestor, but we may be justified in the belief that it was this William Blake who went to Springfield, with William Pynchon, of Roxbury, and others, early in 1636. Soon after their arrival there, viz., May 16, 1636, they drew up and signed an agreement, by which they would govern themselves, and be governed. It is a document of considerable length, and at its close they say, "We testifie to the order above said, being all of the first adventurers and undertakers for this plantation. William Pynchon, Nath. Michell, Henry Smith, the mark I of Jehue Burr, William Blake, Edmund Wood, the mark T of Thomas Ufford, John Cabel." "Ordered for the disposinge of the hasseky marish, and the granting of home lotts, these five men or theyre Deputyes, are appointed to have power:" Mr. Pynchon, Mr. Michell, Jehue Burr, William Blake, Henry Smith. "Ordered, that William Blake have 16 polle in bredth, for his home lott, and all the marish in bredth abuttinge at the end of it, to the next high land, and three ackers more in some other place. The above five men to lay out highways when they shall see meete." It is afterwards recorded that Blake, with seven others, gave up or sold their allotments to the Company; but whether it was that year, or the following, I am unable to ascertain by the records. It is my opinion, however, that he did not move his family from Dorchester, but was at Springfield through the summer of 1636, and perhaps 1637. Dorchester Town Records, in 1637, state that William Blake is one (about 104 in all) among whom the land on the Neck was divided. We find that William Blake was made freeman of Dorchester, March 14, 1638—9. In the early days of New England it was an indispensable requisite that a person must be a church member, before he could be admitted a freeman. At what time he joined the church, I have not been able to ascertain. In the year 1645 he was chosen one of the Selectmen, and also in the years 1647 and 1651. In 1645, according to "Blake's Annals," "they agreed upon y<sup>e</sup> Building of a new Meeting-house, and granted a Rate of £250; the Committee Mr. Glover, Nathl. Duncan, Mr. Atherton, Mr. Jones, Dea. Wiswell, Dea. Clap and Mr. Howard; Raters, Edwd. Breck, Wm. Sumner, Thos. Wiswell, William Blake and Roger Clap." Whether the rate of £250 was granted expressly for building the meeting-house, or was for the yearly town expenses, inclusive, I cannot by the record satisfactorily decide. In 1656, Blake says in his "Annals," "This year Wm. Blake, Sen. was chosen Recorder for y<sup>e</sup> Town & Clerk of y<sup>e</sup> Writs for the County of Suffolk; he was to have 20s. per year & be rate-free." In 1663 he says, "This year Died Mr. William Blake, who had been Clerk of y<sup>e</sup> Writs for the County of Suffolk, & Recorder for y<sup>e</sup> Town, near 8 years. He was also Clerk of y<sup>e</sup> Training-band. He Died y<sup>e</sup> 25th of y<sup>e</sup> 8th Mo. 1663, in y<sup>e</sup> 69th year of his age." In 1678—"This year, Agnes, the Widow of William Blake, died July 22d." I have no means of knowing what was her maiden name, or when or where she was born.

Tradition has told us that two brothers, William and Richard, came together in the ship Mary and John in 1630, but I cannot find any proof of the assertion. There was Richard Blake, servant, aged 16 years, came in the ship Confidence, from London, in 1638. In 1644, Richard Blake, of Dorchester, was creditor of the estate of Samuel Sherman, of Boston, deceased. In 1645, by the History of Andover, Richard Blake was the 15th in order as they came into the town to settle, and he was a church-member the same year. He died in Andover in 1695, and left no children in that town. I have not been able to ascertain what relation these two were to each other. Richard could not be son of William, for we have the names and whereabouts of his five children; and he could not be his brother, for William's brother of that name was born about 1598. He might have been cousin or nephew, and in all probability was such. It is my impression, though I may be mistaken, that this Richard was the ancestor of many of the name who now reside in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

The following is an exact copy of William Blake's Will, as it stands on the Records, in the Probate Office, Suffolk County. It was without doubt written by himself. It is short and explicit, and shows the ability and character of the man.

“ The last will and testament of William Blake, (being of perfect memory & understanding y<sup>e</sup> good lord god bee blessed and prayesd therefor) made y<sup>e</sup> third day of September in y<sup>e</sup> year, one thousand six hundred sixty & one, as followeth.

The Will decides the question explicitly, about his children, that there were four sons and one daughter, and we also have their names and residence.

I had formerly supposed that our ancestor built a house and lived at Dorchester Neck, near the Point, towards the Castle; but by investigation, I think he lived in the neighborhood of the main settlement. The precise spot it is not easy to locate at this distance of time; but we are very sure that he had land at the Neck granted to him in 1637, and that a part of the same land has remained in the family to this day. He appears to have been a man of consequence in the new settlement, and also of public spirit, as the first bequest in his will goes to prove. I infer that the town complied with the provision in the will, as I find afterwards that the executrix paid it to the town. At that time the burying-place was small, but a few rods square, on the corner (now Boston and Stoughton Sts.). He and his wife Agnes, in all probability, were both buried in that enclosure, but, sad to relate, no memento is to be found to tell the spot where they repose. This is much to be regretted, and it seems no more than an act of justice that his descendants should appropriately mark the spot of the resting-place of one who was a pioneer to this then wild wilderness, who without doubt labored and suffered much, in faith and hope, that his offspring might enjoy a bounteous harvest. Though his first bequest was but a trifle, yet it served to show the principle and the taste of the man, and was much for him and the times in which he lived. The grave-stones of his descendants, of the successive generations of the family, to the present time, have been righted up, or re-set, and cleansed of the accumulated moss which had rendered them almost illegible for years (by the writer), and now they stand renovated, telling their short but truthful story, of the quick succession of the generations of men; and leading our thoughts back, to the early settlement of New England, to contemplate their hardships, their sacrifices and their trials.

SECOND GENERATION.

- (2) ✓ JAMES BLAKE [3], m. ✓ Elizabeth Clap. She was dau. of Deacon Edward Clap, of Dorchester, b. about 1634, and d. Jan. 16, 1693—4, in the sixty-first year of her age. He was the second son of William and Agnes Blake, b. 1623, in England, and d. in Dorchester June 28, 1700, aged 77 years. He was much in public business, as the Records of Dorchester prove. From 1658 to 1685 we find him in some office almost every year; was a Selectman 13 years; Rater, Constable, Deputy to General Court, Clerk of the Writs, Recorder, Serjeant in the Military Company, which was then an office of honor, and was chosen Deacon of the Church, and ordained to that office June 30, 1672. He served as Deacon about 14 years, and was then chosen Ruling Elder, and served about the same length of time, until his death, both making 28 years, wanting two days. Tradition says, and after the most careful examination of old documents I think there is no doubt of it, that he built the house (now owned and occupied by Mrs. Jane Williams, in the north part of Dorchester, west from Capt. Wm. Clap's tanyard, and north of Mr. Pettee's house, back from the street), and owned a farm adjoining. The house was doubtless built previous to 1650. A sketch of it has been taken as it now appears, and is here presented. The one-story part on the right of the main building has been added within the last quarter of a century. I have no doubt that this is the property described in his Will, where he says, "I give and bequeath to my son John Blake & his heirs, my Dwellinghouse, Barns, Orchard, Yard, Garden and ten acres of Land adjoining more or less, it being partly Upland & partly Meadow." This estate was retained in the Blake family till the year 1825. The bequest to his son Joseph, of one twenty acre lot (more or less), "bounded on the one side with the land late of Samuel & Increase Sumner, and on the other side with the land of Capt. Clap," must have been in this locality. He was probably a farmer, but his time must have been much taken up with other objects. In addition to the time spent in municipal and church affairs, he was frequently engaged in settling estates, as overseer of the will of some friend or neighbor, or guardian of orphan children, in writing deeds and other instruments, &c. I will mention here, by the way, that he was a most beautiful penman; but few of the present day can exhibit chirography that will compare favorably with his which is now extant. I have now before me a deed written by him on parchment, being a conveyance of land at the Neck, from John Wiswell to James Blake, which deed is to be deposited in the Library of the Dorchester Antiquarian and Historical Society. It bears the date of 1684. It appears that he had a peculiar character; such as sound judgment and discretion, a faculty for leading others in important undertakings, and especially strong faith in his "glorious God & Redeemer," as he expresses it in his last Will and Testament.

The following is a copy of Elder James Blake's Will, dated June 26, 1700.

"The last Will and Testament of James Blake, Ruling Elder in Dorchester. Imprimis. I resign my immortal spirit into the hands of my glorious God and Redeemer, and my body to the Earth in hope of a blessed Resurrection. Also revoking all former Wills and Testaments, As to my temporal Estate my will is, that what Estate and Legacies I bequeath and will to any one shall be to them, to have and to hold to them and their heirs forever, they paying what I shall hereby enjoyne them to pay to any person whomsoever. I enjoyne my executors to pay Twenty One pounds to my Relict Widow, according to my agreement with her upon Marriage. And after my Funeral Expences and just debts be fully paid, I will and bequeath to my son James Blake all my Land at Dorchester Neck adjoining to his house that he dwells in, all my Lands on both sides of the way leading to the Castle being about Six and thirty acres. As also a parcel of Meadow lying in the Nook part of s<sup>d</sup> Neck being about six acres. And I injoine my s<sup>d</sup> Son James & his heirs, to pay to Jeremiah Fuller, son of my Daughter Elizabeth, when he comes to the age of twenty One years the sum of Thirty and three pounds, currant money of New England. Item. I give and bequeath to my son John Blake and his heirs, my Dwelling house and Barns, Orchard, Yard, Garden, and ten acres of Land adjoining more or less, it being partly Upland and partly Meadow, with all its priviledges. And I injoine him and his heirs, to pay to my Grandson the s<sup>d</sup> Jeremiah Fuller, when he comes to the age of twenty One years, the full sum of Thirty pounds current money of New England. Item. To my Son Joseph Blake I give and bequeath one twenty acre Lott be the same more or less, bounded on the one side with the Land, late of Samuel and Increase Sumner, and on the other side with the Land of Capt. Clap; also a piece of Woodland lying in the 3d Division being about nine acres, Also ten acres of Pasture land, be it more or less, lying at the Mouth of the great neck, bounded Easterly on Land of Serjeant Wiswall, and Westerly on Land of James Bird. To my Son in Law Jeremy Fuller I will and bequeath for the use of his son, my Grandson, in lieu of an old bed I had which was bequeathed to his Wife my Daughter dec'd by her Grandmother, One Feather bed, pair of sheets pair of blankets, bolster, pillowbeer, pillow Coverlets. To my Son Joseph Blake I also give all my right in Common Land, that is not yet divided. And if there shall be ought of my Estate remaining, and not mentioned above, it shall be equally divided between my Children, James, John, Joseph, and my Grand Child

Jeremiah aforementioned. I constitute my Sons James Blake and John Blake Executors of this my Will and Testament and Capt. Samuel Clap and my Brother William Blake overseers of it. And I empower my Overseers to interpret this my Will if any doubt arise about any Clause or Clauses in it, and to audit and Determine all differences that may arise among my Children and Grand Child, and their heires. And I declare that their Interpretation and Determination shall be held firm and valid forever, even as if I myself had done the same. Also I will to my Wife Elizabeth all my Corne, Mault, Beefe, porke and all my provisions. Also I will that my Grand Child, Fuller, shall have the pair of holland sheets, 4 holland pillow-beers and a Table Cloth that belonged to his Mother, that she left with me the Testator.

JAMES BLAKE and a Seal.

Signed, Sealed and Declared by the Testator to be his last Will and Testament in presence of us, Nathaniel Clap, Noah Beeman, Humphrey Atherton."

"An Indorsement by way of addition to and alteration of the last Will and Testament of Elder James Blake, written on the other side, and by way of Confirmation of the s<sup>d</sup> last Will and Testament, so far forth as is not repugnant to the s<sup>d</sup> addition and alteration, which now followeth. Imprimis. I will moreover to my present Wife Elizabeth, if God shall remove me suddenly from her, the use and benefit of my two Milch Cows during this Summer that so she may have some small Dayry. Item. Whereas, my Sons James and John were enjoyned to pay sums of Money to my Grandson Jeremy Fuller, when he should come to the age of twenty One years. My will now is, That Forasmuch as my Daughter, his mother humbly devoted him to the Ministry, if it were the Will of God to endow him for it. Therefore if his Father or Guardian shall perceive him capable, and shall accordingly bring him up at the Grammar School, and being fit for it shall enter him at the Colledge and keep him to Learning. That for the two last years, of his being at the Grammar School afitting for the Colledge, My Sons James and John shall pay each of them, five pounds pr. annum, each of those years, to his Parent or Guardian for and towards his Support at s<sup>d</sup> School. Also, during his residence and education in Learning at y<sup>e</sup> Colledge, they shall each of them pay, or by their heirs and assigns, cause to be paid to his s<sup>d</sup> Parent or Guardian, towards his support at the Colledge the like sums of Five pounds pr. annum. Only if it pleaseth God that he come to proceed Batchellor of Arts, In that year of his Commencement, they shall each of them pay Eight pounds to his s<sup>d</sup> Parent or Guardian, for his support for that year. But the rest of the Sums of Money in my Will on the other side, Willed to be paid to my s<sup>d</sup> Grandson Jeremiah, (that being deducted, that shall be paid for his support at school and Colledge as I have now ordered,) I say the remainder to make the s<sup>d</sup> total sums willed on the other side of this paper, Shall not be payable until my S<sup>d</sup> Grandson come to the age of Twenty One Years. And in case he dye before that time, it shall not be paid at all. Item. Whereas I willed on the other side Nine acres of Woodland, lying in the 3<sup>d</sup> Division to my son Joseph, I now repeal it, and I will the s<sup>d</sup> Nine acres (more or less) to my son John Blake. And Whereas I willed about six acres of Meadow, at the Nook to my Son James, I now revoke it, and do will the s<sup>d</sup> Six acres to be equally divided between my son James and my son Joseph. To have and to hold to them in Severalty, part to one and part to the other, and to their heirs and assignes forever. And whereas three acres of Meadow are now abated to my son James, of what I intended for his portion, I will that the value of it, be made up to him out of some Lands not particularly named to be given to any person in my Will on the other side, or out of some other part of my Estate or Goods. And this Indorsement together with my Will on the other side, so far as s<sup>d</sup> Will is consistant with, and not repugnant to it, I do ratify, and declare the same to be my last Will & Testament. And I pray the Lord, Jehovah, Father Son and Holy Spirit, to be the God and Father of my Consort and Children and Grand Children, and all their posterity forever, And that he will give to me, his poor unworthy Suppliant and Servant in his own due time, an open enterance into his glorious Kingdom, and an Inheritance in his loving kindness and mercy that endureth forever. Dated this 26th of June anno. Dom. 1700.

Also, I will to my Grand Son Jeremiah the Holland Cupboard Cloth that his Mother left with me.

By the Hon<sup>ble</sup> William Stoughton Esq. Judge of Probate &c. James Blake and John Blake, Sons and Executors of the last Will and Testament of Elder James Blake, late of Dorchester, dec'e'd exhibited the above written, and made Oath that it contains a just and true Inventory of the Estate of their s<sup>d</sup> dec'e'd Father, so far as hath come to their knowledge, & that if more hereafter appears, they will cause it to be added.

Boston July 25th 1700. Jurat Corme. WM. STOUGHTON.

There are some things in the preceding Will which are hard to reconcile with what we consider facts. He mentions his wife Elizabeth twice, and his relict widow once, and we know that Elizabeth was his wife's name, and that she had been dead more than six years at the date of his Will. We have no reason to suppose that he married twice. I think there is little doubt that he wrote his Will himself, a number of years before his death, but omitted signing it until his last sickness, which was undoubtedly short, as we find the date of the Will but two days before his death. The grandson (Jeremiah Fuller) mentioned so frequently, according to Jackson's History of Newton, died in 1703. Of the death of the child's mother, Elizabeth Fuller, I find no record. The grave-stones for himself and his wife Elizabeth are both in the burying-yard, Dorchester, in a good state of preservation.

THIRD GENERATION.

- (3) JAMES BLAKE [7], m. (i.) Hannah Macy, Feb. 6, 1681, (ii.) Ruth Batchelder, July 8, 1684. His first wife Hannah d. June 1, 1683, aged 23 years, and their child Elizabeth the Nov. before, being about 12 days old. His second wife Ruth b. 1662, and d. Jan. 11, 1752, in the 90th year of her age. He was the eldest son of James and Elizabeth (Clap) Blake, b. Aug. 15, 1652, and d. in Dor. October 22, 1732, aged 80 years and 2 months. He was the first one who built and lived at Dorchester Neck, on the land granted in 1637 to his grandfather, William Blake. We find that his father (Elder James, who d. in 1700) willed to him, as he says, "all my Land at Dorchester Neck, adjoining to his house that he dwells in, All my Lands, on both sides of the way, leading to the Castle, being about Six and thirty acres." He was not in public business so much as his father was before him, or his son after him. He was Selectman 6 years, from 1700 to 1705 inclusive, and was in other offices occasionally. I find that in 1727 he was taxed for 1 house, 63 acres land, 6 cows, 1 horse, 2 swine. In "Blake's Annals" it is stated, "Oct. 22, 1732, died Deacon James Blake, in y<sup>e</sup> 81st year of his age, he having Languished about 7 years with an ulcerous Leg very painfull; but at last died of an Epedemical Cold that carried off many aged people. He was a Deacon in this Church about 23 years, and once chosen Elder but Refused it. Upon his Graue Stone is thus written.

"Here lyes Buried y<sup>e</sup> Body of Mr. James Blake, who departed this Life, Oct. 22, 1732, Aged 80 years, & 2 months.

He was a member in full Communion with y<sup>e</sup> Church of Christ in Dorchester aboue 55 years, and a Deacon of y<sup>e</sup> same Church aboue 23 years.

Seven years strong Pain doth end at last,
His weary Days & Nights are past;
The way is Rough, y<sup>e</sup> End is peace;
Short Pain giues place to endless Ease."

The grave-stones of both his wives are also to be found.

Perhaps most persons now are not aware, that, one hundred years ago, it was the fashion here in New England to furnish gloves and fans to the mourners at funerals, the expense to come out of the Estate of the deceased. We at this day think that it was a very foolish fashion, but perhaps we are daily doing something that will be considered no less foolish by those who come after us. In my examination of some old papers, I found the original bill against Mr. Blake's Estate, which it will be seen is dated one day after his decease. As a curiosity, I copy it entire.

I suppose that custom and fashion were as severe taskmasters, anciently, as at this time. People, if they could possibly afford it, were (then as now) obliged to submit to their despotic rule, or lose caste in the circle in which they had heretofore moved. In 1764, there was a non-importation and non-consumption agreement entered into by many in Boston, and the first public demonstration was at the funeral of Mr. Ellis Callender, son of the late Rev. Elisha Callender, of the Baptist Society. Mr. Andrew Hall, the chief mourner, appeared in his usual habit, with a crape round his arm; and his wife, who was sister and nearest relation to the deceased, with no other token of mourning than a black bonnet, gloves, ribbons, and handkerchief. The funeral was attended by a large procession of merchants and gentlemen of figure, as a testimony of their approbation of this piece of economy, and as a mark of their esteem for a family who had shown virtue enough to break a custom which had proved ruinous to many families in the community.

The following is a copy of the Will of James Blake.

“In the name of God, Amen, the Eighth day of August, 1721. I James Blake of Dorchester, in his Majesty's province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, husbandman, being through God's mercy in a competent measure of health and understanding, though aiged and know not the time of my dissolution, which cannot be long, do make and ordain this my last will and testament; that is to say, principally and first of all, I give and resign up my Soul to Almighty God, my Creator and Redeemer; and my will is, that my body be decently buried in hope of a joyful resurrection at the last day; and as touching such worldly estate, wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me with in this life, I give, demise, and dispose of the same in the following manner and form. My Will is that all my debts and funeral expenses be in the first place discharged. I give and bequeath to Ruth my dearly beloved wife, all my estate, both real and movable for improvement while she shall remain my widow, and if she should marry, then to have the third part of the income of my estate during her natural life; I do will and bequeath unto my son James Blake, and his heirs forever, besides what he has already, my new dwelling house, and barn, and orchard, and all my land lying about my house on both sides of the way leading to the Castle, being 44 acres or thereabouts; also I give unto my son James 3 acres & half of Meadow lying in the nook, so called. I will and bequeath to my son James Six acres & half of Meadow lying near little neck, towards pine neck, bounded on Ebenezer Holmes' meadow at the upper end, and the lower end with a creek, and on the south side with Mr. Modsley, his meadow and the creek between Dorchester and Roxbury. Item. I will and bequeath to my son James 75 acres of land in the twenty five divisions. I do will and bequeath unto my son James 6 acres of Woodland in the third division. I give my son James my Cedar Swamp containing 3 acres and 3 quarters, also my meadow, or meadow botham, 4 acres and half, lying in our farm beyond Ponkeapoge. I will and bequeath to my son James 51 acres of land in the 12 division, and I also give to my son James, Sixty Shillings to buy 5 Bibles for my Grandchildren when they know how to use them. I do will and bequeath unto my son Increase Blake, besides what he has had already, to him and his heirs forever; my house and barn and all the lands I bought of Mr. James Whit and of Desire Clap and his heirs, the same being 24 acres. I will and bequeath to my son Increase ten acres and half of land lying at the mouth of y<sup>e</sup> neck so called. My will is that after my wife's, my two sons James and Increase shall have their portions; and that two sons shall have an equal share of my goods or household stuff, I do will and bequeath to my son Increase Blake the remainder of my meadows, lying near little neck, whereof my son James is to have six acres and half, and my son Increase to have the remainder, which is 5 acres and half, be the same more or less. I do will and bequeath to Israel Hill, five pounds to be paid him within one year after my decease. I do ordain and constitute and impower my loving wife to be my executrix of this my last will and testament. My will is that my wife pay all debts due from my estate, and also to demand and receive all debts due to my estate, whether due by book, or bills or bonds. And I do entreat my loving brethren and friends Deacon Jonathan Clap and Mr. Benjamin Bird to be the overseers of this my last will and testament, to give advice to my wife & children, and to see it performed and fulfilled.

Signed, sealed and declared by the testator, to be his last Will and Testament, in presence of us.

FOURTH GENERATION.

- (4) JAMES BLAKE [14], m. Wait Simpson. She was
b. in Boston, in 1684, and d. in Dorchester May 22, 1753, in the 69th year of her age. He was eldest son of James and Ruth (Batchelder) Blake, b. April 30, 1688, and d. Dec. 4, 1750, in the 63d year of his age. He was a man of rare ability, as what he left on record abundantly proves. Almost the whole of his mature life was devoted to the public. The Town Records show this, and also there are deposited in the library of the Dorchester Antiquarian and Historical Society many plans of land in this and the neighboring towns, and other documents, together with one of his dialling instruments, all of them of great interest to antiquaries. He was a noted land surveyor, and made an actual survey of the whole of the then extensive town of Dorchester. In 1713, it is stated in "Blake's Annals," "This year Majr. Robert Spur, Roger Billing, Capt. Oliver Wiswell, Capt. Thos.
Blake Jun<sup>r</sup>. Surveyor, began in y<sup>e</sup> month of May to measure y<sup>e</sup> Cedar Swamps, &c. This year y<sup>e</sup> Proprietors, Incorporated into a distinct Body from y<sup>e</sup> Town,
And y<sup>e</sup> Colony Line Run & Settled by y<sup>e</sup> Gen. Court."
He was Proprietor's Clerk for the owners of extensive tracts of land in the town of Stoughton. In 1726, the "Annals" say, "Punkapaog or y<sup>e</sup> South Precinct with y<sup>e</sup> Lands beyond it in y<sup>e</sup> Township of Dorchester, were sett off a Township by themselves, by y<sup>e</sup> name of Stoughton, leaving Dorchester but a small Town, being narrow, and but about 9 or 10 Miles in length, y<sup>e</sup> upper part being woodland and unsettled; which before was about 35 miles in length, & in some places 6 or 8 miles wide; the length being Reckoned from Dorchester-Neck to Angle-Tree, as y<sup>e</sup> Road goeth."
His invaluable plans of lands in this town, to the grief of many of the inhabitants, have for about half a century been missing. Many of his plans and drawings, however, are extant, particularly those relating to Stoughton. They are fine specimens of artistic skill, beautiful in design and correct in execution. He left in Records alone, upwards of one thousand folio pages, bearing a style of chirography uniformly fresh and pleasing. In cases of litigation, relative to the early boundaries of lots, in his native town, his plans were considered of the highest authority. On one occasion of this nature, his drawings being brought into Court, as testimony, a legal gentleman of the opposite party made a remark, the purport of which was, that he considered those plans as infallible, and the case might be withdrawn. He was also a maker of dials, and it is said the ancient one, formerly seen on the old Town-house, at the head of State Street, Boston (which many now living can remember), was made by him. He was versed in astronomy. There is a letter, among his papers, from a young man in New Hampshire, inquiring whether he would take him again (after haying), to learn the science of astronomy. He was something of a farmer. In the tax list for 1727, his valuation stood,—1 house, 24 acres land, 1 horse, 7 cows, and 2 swine. It was a part of the same land that was first granted to his great grandfather, William Blake, at Dorchester Neck. He was a Selectman, Assessor and Town Treasurer 25 years—viz., from 1724 to 1748 inclusive; and Town Clerk 24 years, from 1725 to 1748 inclusive. He was on the Committee for building the meeting-house in 1743. He says of himself, in "Blake's Annals" (for it was he who wrote them), "I have in that time wrote in the second Book of y<sup>e</sup> Town Records, 208 pages, which finishes the Book; and have begun the third Book of Records, & wrote therein 119 pages; besides making Tables for both the two first Books of Records, in an Intire Book by itself. I have also in the Treasurer's business made, begun & wrote out, two large folio Books of Accompts, Containing about 224 folios or 448 Pages each; and the major part of the Third Folio Book of about y<sup>e</sup> same bigness. Besides large Bundles of Tax Lists, Tables to make Rates by, Warrants for Town Meetings, Divisions of y<sup>e</sup> Highways, Plans of Land sold by y<sup>e</sup> Town, &c. All which is more, I suppose, by many times over, than any one man before me has wrote & done for the Town." In March, 1749, he says, "In November last, I relapsed into a Chronical Disease, I have laboured under for above 30 years; occasioned at first as I conclude by over heats, Wet & cold, in my laying out y<sup>e</sup> wild & unimproved Lands belonging to y<sup>e</sup> Proprietors of this Town. I have been brought near unto y<sup>e</sup> gates of y<sup>e</sup> Grave, and am yet but weak & low, and have been ever since confined to my Room. And how it will still please God to deal with me, I know not, but pray that I may have Grace to yield not only sincere active obedience to his Will, but also passive obedience; and that he will fit & prepare me for his good Will & Pleasure." He was in poor health from that time until his death, which took place Dec. 4, 1750, between 8 and 9 o'clock in the evening, in the 63d year of his age. He was much esteemed for his learning and piety.

The annexed autograph of James Blake, Jr., is taken from a deed, which he witnessed, given by Robert Robinson to Isaac Howe, both of Dorchester, dated Jan. 22d, 1721.

I give a copy of his Will, as further evidence of his precision in business, and of his strong and undoubted christian faith and hope.

"In the Name of God, Amen. This Twentieth Day of October in the year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred, Forty & Eight, And in the Twenty-second year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord, George the Second, King of Great Britian &c. James Blake of Dorchester in the County of Suffolk, within his Majestys Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, Gentlem<sup>n</sup>, being at present in some measure of Health, and of perfect mind and memory, Blessed be God therefor. But calling to mind the mortality of my Body, & knowing it is appointed for all Men once to die, Do make & ordain this my last Will & Testament; That is to say. Principally & first of all, I Give & Recommend my Soul into the Hands of God that gave it, trusting alone in the merits & Righteousness of Jesus Christ for Salvation, who is my only Mediator, Saviour & Redeemer, and my Body I recommend to the Earth to be buried in decent Christian Burial at the Discretion of my Executor hereafter named; nothing doubting but at the General Resurrection, I shall receive the same again by the mighty power of God. And as touching such Worldly Estate wherewith it has pleased God, to bless me in this Life, I Give and dispose of the same, in the following manner and form. Imprimis. I Give & Bequeath unto Waite my well beloved Wife the Use and Improvement of one Third part of my Real Estate during her natural Life, and the one third part of my Personal Estate, (not hereafter particularly mention'd & given away,) forever. I also give her over & above her third part of my Personal Estate, One Feather Bed & Bedding, which she shall Choose; and I also give her one Cow which she shall choose and the Hay for the said Cow to be Cut & Made, and brought home to the Barn, free of Cost. Item: I Give and Bequeath unto my Son James Blake (beside what I have heretofore given him to set up his Trade,) the sum of Seven Hundred Pounds in good Bills of Credit on this Province; to be paid as hereafter is provided. I also Give him the one half of my Wearing Apparel. Item. I give & Bequeath unto my Daughter Wait Macknight the sum of four hundred Pounds in good Bills of Credit on this Province of the old Tenor, to be paid as is hereafter provided. Item. I Give & Bequeath unto my Daughter Ruth Spur the sum of Four hundred Pounds in good Bills of Credit on this Province of the old Tenor, (beside what I heretofore gave her at her marriage) to be paid as is hereafter provided. Item. I give and Bequeath unto my Eldest Son Samuel Blake (Who hath always lived with me and laboured for me, and of whome I Expect Help and Relief, both for myself and my Wife in our Age,) and to his heirs & assigns forever, all the Residue & Remainder of my Estate both Real & Personal, wheresoever the same is or may be found, upon Condition that he pay all my just debts & Funeral Charges, and the Necessary Charges of Burying my Wife, exclusive of Mourning Cloaths, and the several sums of Money above mentioned; with the making and Bringing home yearly my Wife's Hay as above mentioned. Item. My Will is That my said son Samuel Blake (make) payment of the several sums, above mentioned to my other Children at sundry times, according as he shall come in Possession of my Real Estate. That is to Say; The four Ninth parts thereof within one year after my Decease. The two Ninth parts thereof within one year after the Decease of my Honoured Mother, or my Loving Wife, which shall first happen; & the remaining three Ninth parts thereof within one year after the Decease of the longest liver of my Mother or my Wife. And further my Will is, That in case the value of the Bills of Credit, shall alter from what they now are & pass at, in proportion to Silver Money, before any of the payments above mentioned are paid, then the nominal sum of each payment to alter also, so as to be equal in value as the Sum or Sums above mentioned in Bills of Credit now are. That is to say, to be Computed after the Rate of fifty four shillings for one ounce of Coin'd Silver, Troy Weight. And I do Constitute and appoint my s<sup>d</sup> Son Samuel Blake to be sole Executor of this my last Will & Testament. And I do hereby utterly Disallow & disannull all other former Wills, Legacys & Bequests & Executors by me in any wise before named Willed & Bequeathed, Ratifying & Confirming this & no other to be my last Will & Testament. JAMES BLAKE & a seal.

"Suffolk ss. By the Hon<sup>ble</sup> Edward Hutchinson Judge of Prob<sup>t</sup>. The within written Will being presented for Probate by the Exec<sup>utor</sup> therein named,

Thomas Bird & David Clap made oath that they saw James Blake, the subscriber to this Instrument Sign & Seal, & heard him publish and declare the same to be his last Will & Testament, & that when he so did he was of sound disposing mind & memory, according to these Deponents best discerning & that they together with Noah Clap, now absent, set to their hands as Witnesses thereof in the said Testators presence.

Boston Dec<sup>r</sup> 25th 1750.

I can find no record of an Inventory of his property at the Probate Office in Suffolk Co.; therefore I have no means to ascertain his pecuniary standing. His Surveying Instruments have been preserved, and are now owned and used by one of his descendants, Mr. James Edward Blake, formerly of Warwick, but now of Granville, Illinois. The Compass was used until 1850, but is now laid by to give place to a more modern one, with improvements. The Scales and Protractor are of brass, and they, with the drafting instruments, are equal to any now in use. I find a piece of poetry of his, which I will copy, for preservation, and then close the history, for the present, of one of the most persevering and industrious men of his times.

"May 3d. 1730. Lines on Surveying. By JAMES BLAKE, JUN.

1. Upon our Needle we depend,
In the thick woods our course to know;
Then after it the Chain extend,
For we must gain our distance so.
2. Over the hills, through brushy plains,
And tedious swamps, where is no track,
'Cross Rivers, brooks, we with much pains
Are forced to travel forth and back.
3. Briars and thorns our flesh do tear,
And stubborn brush our garments rend;
Our Instruments need much repair,
Labour and toil our Spirits spend.
4. Sometimes with heat we are oppressed,
Then flies and Serpents they annoy us;
Sometimes for cold we have no rest;
And sudden heat and Cold destroy us.
5. Our fare is mean, our hardships great,
Amidst all which our Charts must keep,
And work come right, our lines run strait,
All plotted be, before we sleep.

6. When weary steps have brought us home,
And chain and needle have respite,
Scale and dividers in use come,
And fit all for next morning light.
7. And though we're careful in the same,
As haste and obstacles will yield,
Yet, oftentimes perhaps will blame,
When rough—Wild woods are made a field."

His and his wife's grave-stones are in a good state of preservation, in the burying-place in Dorchester, near the resting-place of their ancestors and descendants.

He appears to have been a man capable of filling the place of his ancestors in public business, as the records show that he was continually called upon by his townsmen to occupy important offices, for surveying land, writing deeds, settling estates, &c. He was taken suddenly away in mature life, leaving a young family, who have fulfilled their time and passed away, leaving their mark, in a numerous progeny, we trust for the advancement of all good and pure and worthy objects, through all coming time. I have been favored by a friend and kinsman (Edward Howe, Esq. of Portland, Me.), with an extract from his mother's diary (Mrs. Patience Howe, of Dorchester, and eldest daughter of Samuel and Patience Blake), which gives a better account of Mr. Blake and his family, than I can otherwise collect. I will therefore copy from her diary, and then perhaps add a few incidental facts that have come to my knowledge. She says, under the date of April 23, 1807—

“My Father was one who was often from home several days together, in measuring and laying out Land. The last of April, in the year 1754, on Saturday night, he returned home very unwell. A fever set in, and he died the Wednesday following, May 1, 1754, in the 39th year of his age. My Father & Mother lived together about fourteen years. My Mother lived a Widow about Eight years, and then was married to Deacon Richard Hall. She lived with him about as long as she did with my Father. He died March 12, 1776, at the age of seventy, and she lived a widow about ten years, and died at the age of seventy two years. She was sister to Deacon Abijah White. (See a short sketch of her family in a discourse of the Rev. T. M. Harris, on the death of Uncle White.) My Father, Mr. Samuel Blake, was married to Miss Patience White, June, 1740. April, 1741, My Brother Samuel was born, and in the war with England he went into the army, was taken in Fort Washington, and by the best accounts we could get, he died a prisoner at New York in 1776. My second Brother, Edward, was born Dec<sup>r</sup>. 1742, & is now living in Boston. My third Brother, Thomas, was born Nov. 1744, was the first child baptized in the North Meeting-house, the first Sunday they met in it, viz. Dec. 2, 1744. He died when about one year old. I was born Feb. 15, 1747, the only one of the children now living in Dorchester. My fourth brother, Jonathan, was born Jan<sup>y</sup> 1, 1749, is now living in Warwick Ms. My fifth brother, James, was born Dec<sup>r</sup> 1750. He was of a studious turn of mind from a child. When very young he would hardly be persuaded to leave his books, to play with the other children. He was very anxious to go to College. Mother being a widow, she thought the undertaking would be too great, as she had a number of children to provide for, but as he could think of nothing else, she, with the advice of her friends put him to learning, and he entered College in the fifteenth year of his age. He spent the time there with pleasure to himself, and the approbation of his teachers. As soon as he came from College he had the offer of three Schools. He declined taking one in Dorchester, for he said he should have a number of scholars, who were his former schoolmates. In a few days after he came home, he went to keep School at Weymouth, and boarded at the Rev. Mr. Smith's. He disliked keeping School very much, and resigned it, in about nine months. He said it was such an impediment to his studies, he could not think of keeping School. After he gave up, he employed his time wholly in the study of Divinity, under the instruction of Rev. Mr. Smith. After he had studied about a year, Mr. Smith was taken sick, and urged him to supply his place in the pulpit, which he did, though with great reluctance; for it was sooner than he intended to preach, and he said he did not think himself qualified; but he was very well liked, and many spoke much in his praise. He was beautiful in person, sociable, entertaining and edifying in his conversation. In a letter to me after he left his school he writes, 'I have nothing to trouble me, only anxiety for the future, how I shall appear when I launch out into the broad ocean of life.' He wrote twenty sermons, and preached but one Sunday in Dorchester, which was Nov. 10, 1771. He met the approbation of old and young, and many spoke highly in his favor. The next Sunday morning (Nov. 17,) he died, and was brought to his Mother's, a Corps at night. Thus our pleasing hopes and fond expectations were crushed in a moment. It shows us that man, at his best estate, is altogether vanity; and that youth or health is no security against the arrest of death. I received the account of his death with silent grief; and was so deeply affected, that I was past shedding a tear. I mourned greatly, though I hope I did not murmur. The sermons he preached at Dorchester, are in print; his forenoon text was, John 13 c. 17 v. 'If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them.' In the afternoon, 2<sup>d</sup> Cor. 5 c. 7 v. 'For we walk by faith, not by sight.' My sixth brother, Thomas, was born October, 1752, is now living in Boston. My two sisters (twins) Mary & Sarah, were born Sept. 1754, a little more than four months after the death of my Father. Mary was a lively pretty child, but very weakly; she died when about twenty two months old. My other sister, Sarah, lived in this town. She married Mr. John Pierce. As she and I set down in life, not far distant from each other, we spent many happy hours together. She was of an even temper, very thoughtful and studious, her conversation agreeable and friendly. She was taken from her family and friends, at a time when it appeared to us, she was very much wanted. She died in July, 1791, in the thirty seventh year of her age, and left Ten children, Four Sons and Six Daughters. And Aaron held his peace. It becomes us to be still, and know that the Lord, he is God."

I would here remark, that the Dorchester Antiquarian and Historical Society have ten of the manuscript sermons of James Blake, spoken of above, which were presented them by the Hon. Jonathan Blake, of Brattleboro', Vt. He was buried in the old grave-yard, by the side of his ancestors, in Dorchester. His gravestone is in a good state of preservation, and on it is written,

"Mr. James Blake, son to Samuel & Patience Blake, died Nov. 17, 1771, in the 21 year of his age.

An Angels arm can't snatch him from the grave, Legions of Angels can't confine him there."

It was mentioned above that Mr. Blake went to board in the family of Rev. Mr. Smith at Weymouth. He continued an inmate of the family until his death, which was a little more than two years. There was an intimacy between him and the youngest daughter (Miss Betsy Smith), which resulted in an engagement of marriage, at some future day, when his pecuniary prospects would warrant it. His sudden decease was a heavy calamity to her. But she was a woman of superior endowments, and educated in virtue and holiness. In a letter to a brother of the deceased, which I now have before me, dated Feb. 28, 1772, she says, "A firm reliance and confidence in Him whose wisdom cannot err, produces that peace of mind, which passeth all understanding; the bitter cup of adversity is sweetened with the prospect of a future and more permanent happiness." Miss Smith had two sisters, older than herself; one married to President John Adams, the other to Judge Cranch. She was subsequently married twice; first to Rev. John Shaw, of Haverhill, who graduated at Harvard College 1772, and died 1794—and second, to Rev. Oliver Peabody, of Atkinson, N. H., who graduated at Harvard College 1773, and died 1831.

The children of Samuel and Patience Blake were distinguished for their practical good sense, inflexible integrity and moral worth. Samuel, the eldest son, it has been before said, perished in the army. How long he lingered, and how much he suffered, has never been known to his friends. He left no family, was never married, and we of this day know but little of him, except that he was a land surveyor. Three other brothers were not less loyal to their country—Edward, Jonathan and Thomas. They all sacrificed much, and suffered much, to secure for their posterity a Freedom and Independence such as the world never knew before. These three all lived to a good old age, enjoying the undoubted reputation of practical goodness of heart; religious without ostentation, pious without superstition, and good without pretence. The two daughters who left families, viz., Mrs. Patience Howe and Mrs. Sarah Pierce, were taken away earlier in life. They too were models of christian excellence, walking before their families in faith in the religion they professed. It may be said of all of them, that they lived above the world. Though they enjoyed much in life, with their kindred and friends, yet they had no fear of death. They all left large families, whose descendants are scattered the whole length and breadth of the Union; many of them filling important stations, in public and social life, and others of them pursuing quietly the even tenor of their way (so characteristic of the family), enjoying the confidence and respect of their friends and acquaintance. It is with perfect assurance that I say, the descendants of the foregoing, whose history I have with so much pains and toil been trying to preserve from entire oblivion, need not blush for their ancestors, but may well take heed for themselves, and see that they perform their part, according to the light and knowledge with which they are so signally favored.

I copy Mr. Blake's will, which undoubtedly he wrote himself, when in mature life, and in health. It speaks the character of the man; his faith, his confidence, and his hope. I copy the inventory of his estate, for his descendants to see the increase in value of real estate in this locality.

"In the name of God, Amen. this seventeenth day of february in the year of our Lord, One thousand seven hundred & fifty two & in the twenty fifth year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord, George the second, King of Great Britian &c. He was a shoemaker, farmer and brickmaker, and resided on the lower road, about half a mile south from Meeting-house Hill.

I will here remark, that formerly, Dorchester was noted for the great quantities of brick, of a superior quality, that were manufactured by the inhabitants. I have been informed that part of the brick, in the present Massachusetts State House, were made by Mr. Howe, on his farm.

- (8) ✓JONATHAN BLAKE [27], m. Sarah Pierce, Oct. 14, 1773. She was dau. of John and Elizabeth (Fessenden) Pierce, b. in Dorchester, Dec. 5, 1750, and d. in Warwick, Aug. 15, 1831. It might truly be said of her, as of a virtuous woman of old, "She openeth her mouth with wisdom; her children rise up and call her blessed: but a woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised." He was son of Samuel and Patience (White) Blake, b. at Dorchester Neck, Jan. 1, 1749, and d. at Warwick, Oct. 8, 1836, in the 88th year of his age. He was a tailor, served seven years as an apprentice in Boston, and after he became of age, commenced business in Dorchester. He lived on the corner between Bowdoin and Green Streets (near the present Episcopal Church). The house is now standing which he built in 1773. He served five campaigns in the Army of the Revolution, was Adjutant at Rhode Island, and sick with the dysentery at Ticonderoga, N. Y. The United States government, though tardy in their action, at last granted pensions to the officers and soldiers of the Revolution, in part compensation for their great sacrifices and hardships in that eventful contest; and Mr. Blake was a participant of the same, from the passage of the act until the close of life. In 1781 he sold his place in Dorchester and bought a farm in Warwick, and moved there in June of that year. It was comparatively a new town, had been incorporated but eighteen years (viz. 1763), was one hundred miles from Boston as the road then went (now 76 miles), and the roads very bad at that. I have been repeatedly told that they were five days on their journey from Dorchester. The town was granted to a company, belonging to Roxbury, for military services. It was at first called "Roxbury Canada," or "Gardner's Canada." Thus many of the early settlers were from Roxbury, Dorchester, and its neighborhood. Mr. Blake carried on the tailoring business, in connection with farming, for many years, but relinquished it as old age came on, although he cut some garments for his cotemporaries when he was over eighty years old. I will here remark, that the Rev. Lemuel Hedge was the first minister of Warwick; he died in 1777, and a slab, in the grave-yard there, marks the spot where his ashes rest. He was grandfather of Dr. Frederic Henry Hedge, now of Brookline. The second minister of W. was Rev. Samuel Reed, formerly from Bridgewater, at which place his brother, John Reed, was minister, and his brother Solomon Reed was minister of Petersham. Rev. Samuel Reed died at W. in 1812, aged about 57 years. His widow, whose maiden name was Shaw, survived him more than thirty years. There is a manuscript history of the town of Warwick, from its commencement to 1853, very full and explicit, written by the Hon. Jonathan Blake, now of Brattleboro', Vt., who has passed all his life in W. except about three years, and has been in public business the most of the time from the beginning of this century. Circumstances have rendered him peculiarly fitted to do justice to the subject, and I hope that manuscript will not be lost to the history of Massachusetts, for I well know that it cost the writer much labor and toil.

- (9) THOMAS BLAKE [29], m. Mary Barnard, Feb. 19, 1793, dau. of Capt. John and Mary (Lowell) Barnard. She was b. Aug. 28, 1766, and d. May 9, 1844, in Boston. He was son of Samuel and Patience (White) Blake, b. at Dorchester Neck, Oct. 7, 1752, and d. Feb. 16, 1840. At about the time of the breaking out of the Revolutionary War, he left Boston for Hanover, N. H., and shortly after, in 1775, at the request of Gen. Montgomery, joined the army as a volunteer. He remained after this a little time in New Hampshire, for the purpose of inducing others to engage in the cause to which he had devoted himself, when he proceeded across the then unsettled state of Vermont, to Lake Champlain, where the army was stationed. Here he remained until St. John's and Montreal had been captured, after which he returned to New Hampshire. In 1776 he was at White Plains, N. Y., in Col. Baldwin's regiment, when he received an appointment as Ensign in the army then forming, and was despatched on recruiting service, after which he joined the forces at Ticonderoga and was in the retreat before the army of Gen. He was son of Jonas and Sarah Leonard, born in Warwick, Oct. 3, 1777, and died there Jan. 6, 1843. He bought the farm and saw-mill of Samuel Morse (at Morse's pond), in 1802, and occupied it till his death, which was about 40 years. The mill is near the spot where there was once a forge for making iron, soon after the town was settled. He was a descendant of the Leonards of Norton, whose ancestors were early in this country. It has been a proverbial saying, that wherever there were iron works, there you would find a Leonard; and it is true that the family have been identified with the iron interest from the early settlement of New England. They have been noted for their industry and perseverance in business, and their hospitality, benevolence and christian virtues. As a general thing, they have been a long-lived race. It may truly be said that Mr. Leonard, the subject of this paragraph, inherited all the good qualities of his ancestors. He was Deacon of the Congregational (Orthodox) Church in Warwick from 1831 until his decease. His widow still resides at the old homestead (1856), with her son-in-law, George W. Moore, enjoying a comfortable degree of health.

She was dau. of Asa and Martha (Merriam) Conant, and sister to Susannah who married James Blake, born in Warwick October 23, 1786, and died October 21, 1819. He was son of Jonathan and Sarah (Pierce) Blake, born in Dorchester May 29, 1780. His father moved to Warwick in 1781, when he was one year old. He has, with great labor, collected and written the history of Warwick, from its first settlement till 1853. It is now in manuscript, and ought surely to be published, for the benefit of those who are to come after us. He has been a friend to all public improvements, was an ardent advocate of Railroads in their early days, and has experienced considerable political opposition on that account. He writes me of himself, and says, "I lived one year in Dorchester, then moved to Warwick, in Franklin County, and lived there over seventy-three (73) years, and then removed to Brattleboro', Vt. Was Town Clerk of Warwick fifteen (15) years; served as Selectman, Overseer of the Poor and Assessor nine Abner and Sarah (Rice) Goodell, born at Warwick, May 12, 1814. Col. Goodell was formerly from Marlboro', and his wife, Sarah Rice, was from Sudbury; she was sister to Capt. William Rice, who now lives on the old farm, where they were born, in Sudbury, about half a mile east of the middle of the town.

About the same time he established a tannery, and followed that business many years, but his tanyard has been taken up, and the ground occupied with dwellings, and he being a large land-holder, has retired from business with a competence. vious to her decease, but she was remarkable then, as always, for her cheerful christian spirit, patient suffering, and perfect conscientiousness in all the relations of life. Although her lot was cast in affluence, yet that did not secure her health and freedom from pain, and through all, she exemplified the true christian, perhaps as perfectly as it is possible to do here in this earthly pilgrimage. Mr. Williams was born in Roxbury, Dec. 28, 1790, was a descendant of an an-

He was son of John and Sarah (Blake) Pierce, of Dorchester, born July 14, 1773, and died at Brookline August 23, 1849. Dr.

Pierce graduated at Harvard College in 1793, and was ordained at Brookline March 15, 1797. He was the sole pastor of the church there, fifty years; at the expiration of which, on March 15, 1847, the whole town united in one grand "jubilee," which will long be remembered as one of the interesting incidents of life, by many who were present on that occasion. Rev. Frederic N. Knapp was ordained his colleague Oct. 6, 1847. In January, 1849, Dr. Pierce preached the annual Election Sermon. His health began to decline in the spring, and gradually failed until, on the evening of August 23d, the same year, he closed his earthly existence in peace and hope. When I think of him, it brings to my mind a remark he made to me, nearly forty years since, when he was speaking of his ancestors. He said, "the Pierces have been a godly race." For a more extended account of Dr. Pierce, I would refer the reader to the "American Unitarian Biography," and also to the "Book of the Lockes," see Appendix R., page 370. His widow and two daughters still reside at Brookline.

(36) SARAH PIERCE [73], m. William Pope, June 16, 1799. She was dau. of John and Sarah (Blake)

Pierce, born in Dorchester Dec. 17, 1774. I remarked of John Pierce (Mrs. Pope's father), that he was a dear lover of church music, and it seems to be entailed to his descendants. As a case in point,—Sunday, March 2, 1856, was a very stormy day; there were so few people at meeting, that we met in the vestry. There were but eight of the choir of singers present, and Mrs. Pope, then in her 82d year, stood up and sung with them through the day. Of those present belonging to the choir, she had one grand-daughter, one grand-niece, and two grand-nephews. The Dorchester First Church choir contains nine members who are descendants of the above-named John Pierce. William Pope was son of Col. Frederic and Mary (Cole) Pope, of Stoughton, born Nov. 12, 1774. He resides in Dorchester, was a lumber dealer, but has retired from business. But very few of the age of Mr. and Mrs. Pope enjoy such uninterrupted good health.

“The last Will & Testament of William Blake of Milton. I being now aged & weak of body, and know not the time of my dissolution, which cannot be long, Yet through the mercy of God, of perfect memory & understanding, Do make this my last Will & Testament this twenty Second day of June 1703. After my just Debts and Funeral Expenses are paid, My Will is that my dear & loving Wife shall have Ten pounds good & lawfull money, to be paid unto her by my Executors, at the time mentioned in the agreement made at our marriage. Also Wife to have the use of the Chamber in the new End of my house, so long as she continue my Widow & dwell in the same & no longer, she shall not Lett or hire out the same, Also to have the wood that grows upon one acre of Land, between George Lyons and Deacon Sumner's, at the upper end of the Lott next the plaine. I give unto my Son Samuel Blake a piece of Land about One hundred acres, more or less, lying in Dorchester, near the house of Eben<sup>r</sup>. Billings. I give unto my two Sons Nathaniel Blake & Edward Blake all Lands whatever in Milton or Dorchester (except the 100 acres above,) and all my moveables, within doors and without, also Nathaniel & Edward to be Executors, & they shall pay unto my Daughters, in good pay, to my Dau. Ann Gilbert Five & twenty pounds,—to Mary Willis, Twenty five pounds,—to Experience Carver, Fifteen pounds,—and to Mehettable Briggs, Twenty pounds,—Lieut. Sam<sup>l</sup>. Paul and John Blake to be overseers.

I find on the Dorchester Record of Births, the names of all the children of William Blake who are mentioned in the foregoing Will and Petition, except the last, viz., Mehettable; and as she was born after Milton was set off from Dorchester, and incorporated as a town, it is most probable her name is on the records in Milton. The son William, on whose account the foregoing petition was presented to the "Honrd Councell" in 1675, is not mentioned in the Will, in 1703; therefore I take it, for granted that he died early, with his "grievous bodily distempers."

Dorchester Records say, "Susan, dau. of William Blake, d. May 4, 1676." She must also belong to the above family. Mr. Blake was Deputy to the General Court, a number of years, from Milton.

The Will of EDWARD BLAKE, of Milton. He was third son of William and Agnes Blake, of Dorchester, born in England about 1625, and died in Milton 1692.

By the above Will, and what little I find on Dorchester Records, I infer that the children of Edward Blake were three sons and five daughters, and that his wife had deceased previously.

The Will of JOHN BLAKE, of Boston. He was fourth son of William and Agnes Blake, of Dorchester, born in England about 1626 or 27, and died in Boston in January or February, 1688-9.

JOHN BLAKE and a Seal.

Presented by Mary Blake the Executrix and proved the 21st february, 1688-9."

I have not found the Inventory of John Blake's Estate, but judging from the Will, it was large for those days. Probably he never had any children. He gives the most of his estate to his nephews and nieces. According to the fashion of the day he calls them "Cosens," which then meant a brother or a sister's son or daughter; as he says in his Will, "my loving Cosin John Blake, son of my Brother James Blake." Probably his sister Ann, who married Jacob Legare, was dead, as he makes no mention of her, but he names Bethia Shaw, who no doubt was Ann Legare's daughter, and Hannah Walker must have been daughter of Hannah Legare, and grand-daughter of Ann; her father, John Walker, being dead, and her mother, Hannah, in all probability married for second husband, John Wiswell. I think it must be so, or he would not have given Mrs. Wiswell ten pounds and his great Bible.

The following is an abstract of Jacob Leager's Will. His wife was Anna Blake, daughter of William and Agnes Blake, born in England, about 1628 or 29. It seems by the Will that he had been married twice previously, but whether his second wife's children were his children, I cannot decide, but should judge not, by the summary manner in which he disposes of them.

“I give to Anna Leager my Wife the third part of all my Estate, during her Life & I give to my two Daughters Bethia Leager, & Hannah Leager, the other two thirds, to be equally divided when they arrive at Eighteen years of age, or in case of marriage before that time. At the wife's death the daughters to have, her thirds. In case both daughters die before marriage, one half the Estate to be equally divided between my sister Maye's children in England, & the other half to Jacob Walker ten pounds, to Joseph Walker, ten pounds, to Elisha Thuston, ten pounds, and that which remains shall be given to an Almes house, & to my second wife's children, I give twelve pence a piece, to be paid them at their demand. I hereby empower William Parks Deacon of Roxbury & Robert Walker of Boston, to see this will performed.

JACOB LEAGER.

John Pers, Jacob Walker, Benjamin Thuston.

Will proved and Administration granted to Anne his relict, March 19, 1662-3.”

“Inventory of the Estate of Jacob Leager, of Boston, taken March 12, 1662-3.

Whole amount of Inventory £182-05-03.

Signed by Thomas Pyon.”

In the Records of the Colony of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England, in June, 1663, I find the following Order of the Court.

“In ans<sup>r</sup> to the petition of Anne Legar, relict of Jacob Legar, it is ordered, that she shall have liberty to sell out of the estate of hir late husband to pay the debts, & that then there be a diuission of the rest of the estate into thirds, of w<sup>ch</sup> the widdow to haue one third part as hir oune for euer, this to be donne by the advise & asistance of the ouerseers, and the other two thirds to be improoved by the said ourseers for the releife of the children.”

June 6, 1663.

It appears by the Will above, that Jacob and Anne (Blake) Legar left but two children, and they were daughters, Bethia and Hannah, and we find, twenty-six years later, viz., 1688-9, John Blake, of Boston, who was their uncle, left the most of his estate to his nephews and nieces. In his Will he says, “I give unto my loveing Cosin Bethia Shaw and her children thirty pounds. I give unto Haannah Walker, daughter of John Walker dec'd, five pounds. I give unto my loveing kinswoman Hannah Wiswell wife of John Wiswell, ten pounds, and my great Bible.” Thus I take it for granted, that Bethia Legar married a Shaw, and had children; and Hannah Legar married John Walker, and he died, leaving one daughter, named Hannah; and the widow married, for second husband, John Wiswell.

Thus we find that the children of William and Agnes Blake (who came from England with their parents, the eldest being but ten years of age, and the youngest not more than two years), were four sons and one daughter, and all of them subsequently married, and four of them had children. William had nine children; four sons and five daughters. Four of the daughters married, and their husbands names were, Gilbert, Willis, Carver and Briggs. James had four sons and two daughters; one daughter married to Jeremiah Fuller. Edward had eight children; three sons and five daughters, and the daughters all married. Their husbands' names were, Picher, Richard Talley, Kilton, Nathaniel Wales, and Obadiah Swift. John, it is presumed, had no children, as we can find no mention made of any. Anna, who married Jacob Legar, had two daughters, and one married a Shaw. The other married (i.) John Walker, and (ii.) John Wiswell.

I now present a copy of the Will of JOHN BLAKE, of Boston. Who this John can be, it has baffled all my researches to ascertain. By the reading of the Will, I conclude he was a young man. He speaks of property in England, of rents due for a number of years, &c.; therefore it is highly probable that he was not born in New England. Whether he was a connexion of those here, remains in doubt. He mentions his son Richard, who undoubtedly was quite young, and whether he lived to be a progenitor of some of the race here, is altogether uncertain. He gives as a reason for making his Will, that he was "bound for England speedily, and not knowing how it may please the Lord to deal with me, upon my Voyage." It is not likely that he ever returned to New England, as about two years from the date of the Will, administration was granted to Sarah Pool, relict widow of the deceased.

"In the name of God, Amen, the Eighth day of October in the year of our Lord one thousand Six hundred ninety & two, I John Blake of Boston, joyner, being in good bodily health, and of sound mind & memory, and being bound hence to England, speedily, & not knowing how it may please the Lord to deal with me, upon my Voyage, Do therefore make & ordain this my last Will & Testament. - - - - - . After my Debts & Funeral Expences are paid, I give & bequeath unto my Son Richard Blake, my great Bible, which was given me by my Father. - - - - - . I give all my property in England & in New England, whatsoever, unto my beloved Wife Sarah Blake & to her heirs & assigns forever. And do constitute & appoint my beloved Wife Sarah, the Executrix of this my last Will & Testament.

Published & declared in presence of
 JOHN BLAKE and a Seal.
 James Barton, Thomas Creese, Eliezer Moody sen.

Administration granted to Sarah Pool, Relict Widow of the dec'd & Executrix named in the Will, Oct<sup>r</sup>. 11th 1694."

I have frequently found instances, where it is supposed that a widow has married again, before her deceased husband's estate was settled, and administration granted to her in her new name, and she would be called the relict widow of the deceased.

A list of the Births, Marriages and Deaths, of persons by the name of Blake, from the year 1630 to 1800, found on the Dorchester Town Records.

Under the date of September 18, 1773, there were four intentions of marriage entered in the above mentioned Book of Records. The parties were Increase Blake and Sarah Pierce, John Baker, jr., and Ann Pierce, Jonathan Blake and Sarah Pierce tertia, and Joseph Clap, jr., and Abigail Glover. These four couple, on a pleasant day, the 14th of October following, met together and started off, with the plausible excuse of going a short distance into the country a chesnutting. But instead, they made their way to Quincy, and called at the mansion of the Hon. Samuel Quincy (an uncle of the present Hon. Josiah Quincy, sen.), who was a magistrate, and were all united in marriage by him at one time, and then they returned to their several homes. Two of the ladies were sisters, viz., Sarah Pierce and Ann Pierce, and Sarah Pierce tertia was cousin to Sarah and Ann. Some of the above mentioned party died early, and Mr. Jonathan Blake and his wife Sarah outlived all the others many years. She died in 1831, and her husband in 1836.
